Teaching to Serve Our Community

For more than 70 years, physicians in Scripps graduate medical education (GME) programs have helped care for underserved populations as part of their training. Our comprehensive range of GME programs include residencies in internal medicine, family medicine, podiatry, trauma, emergency and surgical critical care, as well as research programs. Our graduates go on to successful careers in medicine at leading medical institutions across the nation, including right here at Scripps. From teaching tomorrow's physicians to caring for the community during the COVID-19 pandemic and collaborating with organizations that share our dedication to improving the health of San Diegans, Scripps is here for good.

Investing in Our Community

Scripps touches countless lives in San Diego. We are proud of our multifaceted community efforts, which expand access to vitally needed health care services and improve the quality of life for people throughout the region. This report shares many of the ways we serve our community.

In fiscal year 2021, Scripps Health devoted more than $538 million to community benefit programs, including over $17 million in charitable care. We offer many free and low-cost services, including supporting the work of community clinics, support groups, screening for key health indicators, youth programs, special education for pregnant women and patient advocacy services.

Keeping patients at the center of everything we do, Scripps collaborates with other health systems, community groups, government agencies, businesses and community clinics to serve the greatest needs and prioritize our investments in the health of our community.
